Pricing

Dear Homeowner, understand that the process of purchasing custom natural stone products and quartz is different than what most consumers are accustomed too! First, there is a common misconception in the market place that custom natural stone products are priced by the square foot. Unfortunately, pricing by the square foot is incorrect.

That is just a bait and hook marketing strategy used by some competitors to gain indication of interest, then, lure the uneducated consumer to buy their products at an inflated final cost.

Projects are priced using a multitude variables. For example, the material variable is only one factor. Which in itself has many macroeconomic variables on the Global scale. Such variables are, country of origin, currency exchange, infrastructure of country of origin, trade agreements, embargos, freight & shipping costs, scarcity of resource, supply & demand, block grade, type of material, processing of material, etc.... So please, take advice from Marco Jette' LLC representative when discussing budget and applications which is best suited for you the consumer!
